DRAGOON WEST, AND BURLINGAME-TP.,
Osage-co., Kas,, Jany. 26, 1875.

DEAR CHRONICLE—I have often wondered why no one has not had something to say about this part of Osoge county—for, in the estimation of those settled here—it is as fine and productive a part of the county as any one can find. In spite of chinch-bugs, dry weather and grasshoppers, we have enough to live on, and are determined to fight it out on this line for the next year.

The cold weather has been hard on wheat here, but it still looks well. There was as much sown last fall as there was the previous year, and put in much earlier, which has given it a better growth with which to stand the cold weather.

There will be large crops of oats and corn put in this spring by our farmers.

Joseph Johnson of Wabaunsee-co., is building himself a nice residence in this county, and intends to become a permanant resident among us. He is also opening up a new farm.

Woodfill has sold his farm to a Mr. Robinson of Indiana, who is now occupying it. Mr. Robinson intends, shortly, to enlarge his house by building an addition to it.
