transportation of liquor from another state, in "original packages," to persons in this state, is unconstitutional. Justices Gray, Harlan and Brewer dissented. The decision does not affect the law, as far as the sale of liquor is concerned. There has never been the least difficulty experienced by persons in Iowa, who wanted to procure liquor, in getting it from the outside. Railroads are not supposed to know the contents of all packages entrusted to them, and a box sent by Scheidam, Bourbon & Co., of Chicago, to Earnest Rumsorcker, Esq., of Manchester, may contain hardware, dry goods, or whisky cocktail, and nobody but the parties directly concerned by any the wiser. The decision of no account. The state still prohibits the sale or giving away of the stuff, and that is the important point.
