

Pythian Sisterhood.

Unusual was the attendance of Louise assembly, last Friday, from the point of good nature, executiveness and attendance. The twice-a-month meetings result in a little better attendance than the formerly weekly meetings, but for the general good of the order your correspondent, after due consideration, sees fit to criticise the change, inasmuch as our organization has for its aim sociability, and the less we meet the further from our interest and purpose do we drift. But the right course is being pursued, as when gatherings at the various sisters' homes are held more frequent, we still uphold our aim, though not so regular at the lodge room. And this is made all the more so from our meeting and mingling with the brother knights, and for whom we are organized to benefit and help. The gathering at Sister Chas. A. Bien's home, 303 Center street, last week, was well attended, and the hum and rustle of the "Martha Washingtons" made it truly sociable and enjoyed by all. The contestants in the pedro games held all to a late hour, and those who were not there can be assured "there was not an idle moment."

We can repeat the old-time merriment by our attendance at Sister Chas. Denaple, 628 East Exchange street, next Wednesday night. A box social is booked for, all ladies to bring a well-filled box for two, and whose partner at lunch will be the gentlemen who picks out and makes a purchase of one of the boxes.
