

In His Father's Footsteps.

Patrolman Jacob Ganss had a talk with Director Herbert Saturday morning relative to going on the pension list. Ganss has been on the force twenty-nine years and became eligible as a pensioner four years ago. He finally decided to retire and Director Herbert at once selected as the man to take his place his son, Frank Ganss. Ganss junior was on the list of eligibles and he stood well up in the average.
