

Events During the Fire.

J. E. Sorter saved his crib of corn by prying it over, and thus cut the connection between the fire and a millet stack.

The lumber office was saved by water being thrown from the inside against the burning siding and by salt and water being thrown on the roof.

John Heath is said to have carried a bucket of water to the fire and let the water get red hot and set fire to the bucket.

Tam Holt it is said in order to save
