

Theo. Shepard and son Charley have put a stock of goods in there post office building, this makes two stores in Wilmington and it looks as if times were getting better already under our republican government.

Every one is digging wells as water is very scarce. Milton Riggs is the luckiest man we know of as he has struck a bountiful supply of water and is generously dividing with his neighbors.