

We are glad to hear little Leo Shepherd who had his leg amputated last week as the result of being run over with a wagon is doing fine, improving every day. He enjoys pictures and books very much and his friends are glad to furnish him such to help him while away the tedious hours of his helplessness.