

A pleasant wedding took place at the BeauJean House last Thursday, May 18th, at 3 p. m. The groom was George F. Underwood of Buffalo, formerly of this village, and the bride Hattie A. BeauJean. A little before the appointed hour the notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march, rendered by Miss Stewart of Buffalo, fell upon the ear of the guests assembled in the parlors. Presently two little girls, cousins of the bride, Margaret Kessel and Katie Jones, carrying bouquets of daffodills, stepped through the door from the hall into the room. Immediately following them came the groom and bride and took their position under an arch of evergreen with intertwining flowers. Above the arch, resting side by side, were two emblematic doves. The groom was dressed in black, and the bride wore a fawn colored silk, with a corsage bouquet, consisting of lemon colored roses, and carrying in her hand a bouquet of Marche o' Neil roses and smilax.

The couple presented a very pleasing appearance, while the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Bates, assisted by Rev. J. F. Stocker of Chertreek.

A table covered with beautiful and costly presents attested the high regard entertained for the young couple by a large circle of admiring friends, and as the company dispersed, after a delicious repast, all wished them a long and happy and useful life. ∴
